

GENEALOGY OF THE LA TROBE FAMILY

By

D.W.M. Grant FHG FGSV

INTRODUCTION

When the decision was taken to make the December 1975 issue of The Genealogist a special Charles Joseph La Trobe Memorial Issue our editor asked me if I would compile a genealogy of the La Trobe family for inclusion. My initial investigation showed, that genealogically, little has been published on the La Trobes and their relatives, in fact only two works were readily available which contained genealogies - Charles Joseph La Trobe by Alan Gross and John H.B. Latrobe and His Times, 1803-1891 by John E. Semmes (see Bibliography and Reference Notes).

Some years ago I had begun collecting material on the La Trobe family for inclusion in my book (still in preparation) The Governors of Victoria: Their Families and Descendants and in relating these three sources it soon became apparent that serious discrepancies and omissions were occurring, and that further, deeper research was going to be needed in order to produce a fairly comprehensive and reasonably accurate account of the family. The mistakes in Gross's book and omissions in Semmes' work needed some attempt at verification and rectification before a new and updated genealogy could be published in The Genealogist.

After as intensive a search as time allowed, three additional major sources came to light which gave me the main framework on which to build - Dr John Henry de La Trobe, of Hamburg and the material he supplied, Robert Barnes's La Trobe Family Genealogy, and thirdly, material supplied by the La Trobe and State Libraries, Melbourne.

These sources have supplied the information which forms the basis of the following genealogy of the La Trobe family and their descendants, supplemented by material I already had and by information gleaned by information supplied by other sources (see Acknowledgements and Reference Notes). I believe this to be the most comprehensive genealogy on the La Trobes and their descendants to appear in English and my deep appreciation is extended to all those who have made the compilation possible.

Whilst we believe this to be the most comprehensive genealogy yet published, it is by no means complete, as reference to the tables and notes will readily show. Where for example do the La Trobes of New Zealand fit in? [see p.208]. This and many other questions remain to be answered and much further research is required before the gaps can be filled. A separate genealogical publication at some future date would seem to be the logical answer.

For reasons of space, most of the notation from the Barnes genealogy has been omitted to make way for cross-references and new sources used in this special compilation. A list of Barnes major sources is placed at the beginning of the Notes.

It is realised that the short time available for the writing and compiling of this genealogy may result in some discrepancies or omissions and correspondence is welcomed in relation to this, particularly in the supplying of new and corrective material.

THE GENEALOGY

Bertrand Latrobe,<sup>1</sup> who is known to have been alive in Montauban, France, in 1621, is the earliest member of the family so far traced with supportable evidence; he = Caillard (sometimes written Gaillarde) Benetz, and had issue at least three children...<sup>2</sup> plus, numerous newspaper sources and other published reference works.

Reference Notes (cont'd)

The following are the reference notes for the genealogy in this issue of The Genealogist.

1. Latrobe would appear to be the original form of the name. The Irish-English branch changed it to La Trobe, whilst the American branch tends to have used the original.
2. Livre de Raison, by Joachim Latrobe.
3. The presence of two Pierres would indicate that the first died before the birth of the second.
4. Barnes indicates two spellings - Dalard and Ballard. Handbuch der Baltischer Ritterschaft, p. 794 gives Dallard.
5. Livre de Raison.
6. Barnes queries either the surname or its spelling.
7. Barnes gives Barthe de Villinur, which could be a misreading of Villemur where Thezare's brother Michel was a merchant.
8. Barnes gives the death date as 1703; Handbuch der Baltischer Ritterschaft, p.7<sup>1</sup> gives 1705.
9. Barnes gives Maffre~ Raymond; Handbuch der Baltischer Ritterschaft gives Maffre:
10. Barnes suggests alternative of Redon.
11. Livre de Raison.
12. Handbuch der Baltischer Ritterschaft has Pierre baptised in Montauban 9.4.1665.
13. Handbuch der Baltischer Ritterschaft, p. 794.
14. Livre de Raison.
15. and 16. Papers of Dr John Henry de La Trobe.
17. No accounts indicate Jean (John) Latrobe's wife's name or parentage.
18. Papers of Dr John Henry de La Trobe.
19. Irish-English branch altered form to La Trobe, but no indication of when. These tables start with James. American branch seemed to use original form of Latrobe
20. Papers of Dr John Henry de La Trobe.
21. and 22. Papers of Dr John Henry de La Trobe.
23. John H.B. Latrobe and His Times 1803-1891, by John E. Semmes; Baltimore, Norma Remington Co., 1971, p.1.
24. Papers of Dr John Henry de La Trobe.
25. Barnes mentions another source as giving 19.3.1715 as birth date for Henry La Trobe and that wife's name was Anne Edwards.
26. Papers of Dr John Henry de La Trobe. Not conclusive that Thomas was third child
27. Family Records, by Ashworth P. Burke; New York, Heraldic Publishing Co., 1965 reprint of 1897 edition, p. 471. ,
28. Alan Gross in Charles Joseph La Trobe, p. 2, gives 30 March 1801. This date repeated in Australian Dictionary of Biography, Volume 2. 1788-1850, I-Z, p. 89 Later evidence corrects this - 'Charles Joseph La Trobe : A Chronology', by L.J. Blake and R. Gill, published elsewhere in this issue.
29. The Athenaeum, 18 December, 1875 - La Trobe's obituary.
30. Journal of Agnes La Trobe, MS 14152, State Library Victoria. [Date of birth and father's first given name amended. Memorial tablet in St Peter's Eastern Hill, Melbourne, is incorrect : C J La Trobe Society Inc., 9/4/2022.]

- i. 'My great Grandfather bought the original Mercers School cottage for my Aunt Marion Durrant which became very popular but then grew too small in time, so he purchased the last Mercers School Highgate Hawkhurst. Marion was the owner of the house and Headmistress of her school. She took Ruby Loyd in as a friend at the last school when she had to leave her family home, in return for her accommodation. Ruby who was a wonderful concert pianist then taught as a music teacher at Mercers School. The school takes its name from our family of Mercer DURRANTS.' Rebecca Gurney, email 29 May 2016.
